MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—Destruction of four German transport ships in the Baltic and heavy fighting along the entire front was announced by the Russian high command in a new war communique today.

"Stubborn fighting continued throughout the night in the directions of Kexholm, Novgorod and Dniepropetrovsk," the communique stated.

"Four German transports were sunk in the Baltic.

"Soviet destroyers in the Baltic sank two launches carrying troops and ammunition. A third transport was set on fire and a fourth ran aground."

The high command indicated heavy fighting is in progress in defense of the great Dnieper river industrial region.

Fierce Action

Announcing heavy fighting along the entire battle front, the communique told of particularly fierce action in the Kexholm, Smolensk-Gomel and Dniepropetrovsk sectors.
This announcement followed previous claims that the Rumanian army's third division had been annihilated with a loss of more than 10,000 men in the Odessa region.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa Newscaster discovers that the highway leading from the power plant, near West Pittsburg, to the New Castle-Wampum road, is being improved. This little connecting piece of highway has long been needed, and when completed will be much appreciated. The highway is blocked at the present time, as the work is in progress.

Miniature golf, which was a nation-wide craze about 10 years ago, seems to be doing a comeback in some parts of the East. Several pretentious courses were noted in a trip through the East, and they seemed to be doing quite a lot of business.

A tinge of autumn is in the air.
Some of the trees and bushes are beginning to show fall coloring.
And Pa Newscaster noted some pumpkins on a Lawrence county farm recently, exceptionally early for pumpkins to be ripe.

If traveling at 40 miles an hour will save gas, there was a lot of it saved on the much-travelled Perry highway on Sunday. Few of the hundreds of cars travelling the highway were going much over 40 miles an hour, and in many cases long lines of traffic were going at an even slower rate.

Motorists travelling through Pennsylvania will have little trouble finding their way to the superhighway. Permanent markers have been placed on highways in a wide

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—
President and Mrs. Roosevelt brought another member of the British royal house—the Duke of Kent—back to Washington this morning, but the national capital got only a fleeting glimpse of the youngest brother of King George VI.

Concluding their week-end visit at the Roosevelt family home in Hyde Park, the chief executive bade a momentary farewell to the duke at Union station. While the President motored to the White House to confer with congressional

The prime minister told Japan

Bus Hits Autos Seven Are Killed

Bus Driver Is Held After Crash In New Jersey—16
Persons Hurt

(International News Service)

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 25.—
Carl Ramsey, 30-year-old Greyhound bus driver, today was ordered held on a reckless driving charge after his New York-bound bus crashed into three cars, killing seven persons and injuring 16 others, one critically.

Six members of one family were burned to death and a seventh was fatally injured. An eighth member of the same family was critically injured and was not expected to live.
The six who were fatally burned were pinned beneath their car which burst into flames when the gas tank exploded.

The bus, carrying 33 passengers from Albany, also caught fire but not until the passengers had escaped through an emergency rear door.
Police said the accident occurred when Joseph Eason, 38, Jersey City N. J., turned out to pass two stalled cars on the highway. The bus rammed the Bason car, and then swung around and struck the two stalled machines.

Bason, hurled from the car, was killed instantly and his brother, William, 31, was critically injured. Pinned under the car were Joseph's wife Blanche, 15, his daughters, Charlotte, 8;

TO RESUME WORK TUESDAY MORNING

(International News Service)

KEARNY, N. J., Aug. 25.—Officials of the C. I. O. industrial union of marine and shipbuilding workers, sponsors of the 17-day walkout at the Kearny plant of the Federal Shipbuilding & Drydock company, today ordered the striking 16,000 workers to return to their jobs tomorrow.

The return-to-work orders were issued after navy officials, acting under authority of President Roosevelt, took over the shipyards yesterday and assumed responsibility for the completion of the two cruisers, six destroyers and four cargo ships now on the ways.

Under the direction of Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, who was delegated on Saturday night to take charge of the plant, foremen and other supervisory personnel met at the shipyard today as a preliminary to resumption of full operations on the $450,000,000 contracts at 7:30
a. m. tomorrow.

There was no show of force when the navy assumed control yesterday; afternoon and officers said they did not expect marines or uniformed sailors to be summoned to duty at the plant. Picket lines immediately were withdrawn after navy officers entered the giant yards.

Truck Upsets; Driver Hurt

blocked traffic on a portion of the road.

As soon as the driver was released
he was rushed to the Jameson Me-his arm was broken; and he was otherwise uninjured.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Violent Soviet counter-attacks on the central front have repulsed after three days of the bloodiest fighting and the German troops have again taken the initiative in this sector, it was announced today.

The Soviet assaults were led by numerous "tanks" strongly supported by artillery fire, it was said.

The Reds were said to have sustained heavy losses both in men and war materials. Ninety-five huge Soviet tanks were destroyed.

Attack In Waves
In a neighboring sector, the Reds attacked in eight waves, each of which broke on the rock of strong German resistance. Then Nazi panzer divisions struck back, inflicting tremendous losses on the Soviets.

An additional 28 tanks, 31 guns and 30 motor lorries were destroyed or captured here.

Striking hard at Russian key points on the eastern front, German armies were declared today to be ready for new mass battles as the tenth week of the Russo-German conflict got under way.

German military authorities de-giant truck, carrying a tank filled with 4,300 gallons of gasoline, skid-ded, overturned and jackknifed on top of the Harbor hill, on Route knee injuries and bruises.

Robert Castled 17, 837 Highland

jured.

The young men crawled out of the cab of the truck.
Krane stated that he was enroute to Warren from Petrolia, Pa. As the truck was rounding a curve, near the top of the hill, the vehicle skid-ded, overturned and jackknifed.

Practically all of the gas, valued at close to $650, escaped through the damaged tank.

Many residents of the community and passersby learning about the mishap, came armed with cans and managed to salvage a considerable amount of gasoline.

City firemen and State Motor police scurried to the accident scene and were forced to shut off traffic for more than three hours, until the wreckage was removed.

Approximately 16,000 men and

Two columns mapped routes thru

LONDON, Aug. 25.—In

A. A. A. Presses For Gas Probe

Seeks Congressional Investi-

age In East

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The American Automobile association today urged a congressional investigation of the gasoline shortage in the East.

A. A. A. President Thomas P.
Henry accused officials of "man-handling" the situation and charged that automobile owners have been "hampered" with conflicting statements "forthcoming from day to day."

He said that if federal control of gas supplies is necessary then Congress should set up the machinery for "an orderly handling and apportionment of available fuel with due regard for the rights of all users."

The auto club head declared that the people have been told "so many different things by so many dif-know what to believe or how seriously to take the situation."

A resolution by Senator Maloney
(D) Conn., proposing an inquiry of the gas shortage has been placed

RAF Bombers Hit Western Germany

Some Raids Are Made By Nazis

British Attack Is Centered On Dusseldorf And Vicinity

NORTHERN FRANCE IS ALSO ATTACKED

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 25.—R. A. F. bombers hammered targets in western Germany last night and early today while Nazi raiders attacked several sections of Britain, causing slight damage, but no casualties.

An air ministry spokesman said British planes during the night sharply attacked industrial objectives and communications at Dusseldorf. It was admitted that three British planes were lost.

Few German Planes Active

The British air ministry announced that a few German planes crossed the coast of east, northeast and southwest England and north-west Scotland during the night and that some flew inland, dropping bombs on several points.

Some German raiders machine-gunned a coastal town in southwest England and high explosives were dropped on another community. No air raid alarm was sounded in London.

Yesterday, the air ministry said, British planes carried out a number of offensives over northern France, attacking hangars, barracks, troops and gun positions. Little opposition was encountered, the ministry stated, and no British planes were lost.

the first time in a Russian military campaign, is situated at the extreme eastern point of the great Dnieper Bend. The giant Dnieper-stroy power dam is a short distance to the south.

It appeared Marshal Semyon Budenny is now extricating his armies from the bend via Dnepropetrovsk.

Odessa Battling Stabbers
The war bulletin also reported stubborn fighting in the Odessa region and said the Red army was taking a heavy toll of the Rumanian troops laying siege to the strategic Black Sea port.

In addition, it was announced, exceptionally heavy losses have been inflicted on the Rumanian fifth and seventh divisions, the former losing 9,000 dead and wounded and the latter 7,000. This brought to four the number of Rumanian divisions reported wrecked in the past two days.

Official sources also announced that a German divisional headquarters had been captured in the Ukraine battle zone.

This statement said Red army cavalry units counter-attacked and threw a strong force of Germans out of a town designed as "B." It was believed, however, that both these actions occurred within the Dnieper Bend.

The official war communique listed 52 enemy planes lost during Friday and Saturday, with Russian losses placed at 39 machines.

Fighting Around Leningrad

(Editor's note: London military authorities declared intense fighting was raging around Leningrad. Russia's severely menaced second largest city, with no indication of any movement either way.)

(The Russian southwesternly counter-attack in the Gomel-Smolensk area was said to have blocked a German drive on Kharkov in the Ukraine designed to outflank the Dnieper river.)

(Officials said it was not known in London whether the Germans had established bridgeheads in the Dnieper Bend, but they declared it appeared the main fighting was still taking place west of the river.)

The Communist newspaper Pravda, meanwhile, warned the nation that the German military forces are "not yet exhausted" and that more stubborn and costly battles lie ahead for Russia's main centers. The paper called on Soviet workers to increase still further their output of planes and tanks, ammunition and other weapons.

DUKE OF KENT GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

over the Glenn L. Martin aviation plant, now working at capacity to turn out heavy bombers for Britain.

Informal Visit
The visit of the Duke of Kent to the States was much more informal than that of his brother and sister-in-law, King George and Queen Elizabeth, in June, 1939. England's ruling heads were received in Washington with all of the pomp and ceremony at the command of the U. S. government. Later they went to New York for a hectic tour of the World's Fair, and wound up at Hyde Park for the first quiet week-end they had enjoyed since arriving in Canada and the United States.

Kent completed a tour of Canadian defenses and war plants, then flew to New York City on Saturday, where official cars whisked him and his small party over the Albany Post road to Hyde Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt undertook no formal entertainment of the duke. Meals were confined to a few "friends and neighbors," whose names were not made public.

On Sunday the President looked the duke into his personally driven touring car and conducted him over the spacious family estate.

In the afternoon the President and the duke took a portable radio and motored over to the Roosevelt Val-Kill cottage. They turned on the radio alongside the swimming pool and listened in on Prime Minister Winston Churchill's broadcast, then went swimming.

Scrapped autos will provide for the deficiency in scrap metal in industry at the present time, there should be little trouble in securing an abundance. There are large auto graveyards in many localities that would seem to offer a huge amount of this metal. Elimination of the old cars would also work wonders in appearance of some of the landscape in the state.

In some cities old street car rails that have remained in the streets since the cars were supplanted by buses years ago, are now to be removed, in order to provide scrap metal. There should be little trouble in disposing of the rails to be removed from the streets of this city when buses are placed in use.

During the rain storm this morning, it was noticed that the sewer catch basin at Mill and Washington street had clogged up, water covering the street in this area for a considerable distance.

The day of quintuplets has not passed, as is evidenced by a quintuplet ear of corn brought to the office of The News on Saturday by Mrs. Albert G. Krah, of 1020 Huey street. It was raised by her husband on his garden near the cement plant, on the Frew Mill road.

Gardeners desiring the ripening of their vegetables were glad to welcome the return of warmer weather over the week-end, and are hoping it will continue for some time.

Heavy pools of water collected at North Mill and East Washington streets and along North Mercer street curbs following the heavy downpour of rain this morning.

Today is Kiddle's day at Cascade park and special rates prevailed. The bathing pool was closed recently because of damage to the filtering system. However, all concessions were in operation.

FAR EASTERN SITUATION DELICATE

Japanese positions will be bridged. American officials are less optimistic.

Japan wants this government to do the bridging by modifying its opposition to the Nippon Empire's plan for establishment of a "prosperity sphere" in the Far East under Japanese direction.

The Japanese government also wants this country to stop sending aid to China. Tokyo feels it could quickly arrange a peace settlement with China if the United States would cease encouraging General Chiang Kai-Shek to resist by sending him war supplies via the Burma Road and extending him financial assistance.

Secretary Hull, on the other hand, feels this government cannot change its attitude toward Japan as long as that country remains a member of the Axis alliance, which he regards as the instrument of a movement for world conquest.

Hull has sought to persuade the Japanese envoy that Japan's best interests lie in the development of friendly relations with the United States and with other countries which believe in orderly and peaceful processes among nations.

merchant and naval vessels totalling 148,200 tons by German U-boats and surface raiders in an attack on a huge convoy in the north Atlantic.

The convoy, including 33 naval and merchant vessels, was attacked over a period of several days while it was enroute to Gibraltar, the announcement stated.

On the Russian front, authorities said, German forces were nearing the Estonian capital of Tallin and also blasting scores of field bunkers stretching from the Lake Peipus to the Lake Imer sectors.

These bunkers were designed to bar the way to Leningrad, where a German spearhead is now standing before the city's outer fortifications and probably awaiting a junction with the Finnish forces south of Lake Ladoga.

Things Fairly Gleam This Easier Way—With Today's Oxydol

With Its New Wonder-Rich Ingredient, It Dissolves Dirt in the Washer

NOW it's possible—a much quicker, easier washday. Just tumble dry clothes into the washer—out they come snowy clean, spic and span, and ready to rinse, the Oxydol way.

Yes, with today's Oxydol you just don't need to soak beforehand—except some stain or unusual piece, of course. Oxydol, with its rich added ingredient, gets clothes sparkling clean without pre-soaking.

Oxydol dissolves dirt while the washer runs. Soak it loose, draws it out gently, safely. Your wash will come so white and bright you'll just beam.

Safe Way to Get Clothes WHITE—Without Bleaching

One reason things get that gray look in ordinary washing is "wash water scum" settles in threads. It dulls colors, too.

But Oxydol's rich added ingredient cuts down that gray deposit. So things not only come sparkling white—they keep white amazingly—in any water—wash after wash.

While you may want to bleach for stains or unusual pieces, you'll just be amazed to see how Oxydol makes white things gleam without bleaching—how washable clothes sparkle.

If You Don't Use A Washer—Oxydol Soaks Dirt Loose in 10 Minutes—No Washboard Scrubbing!

Gets Those "Stubborn Spots"

Have you been doing a lot of hard rubbing on grimy places? You needn't with Oxydol. For those extra "stubborn spots," just wet ... work in a little extra Oxydol ... before you toss into the washer. Then see how Oxydol gets worn-in dirt how your whole wash comes snowy clean without rubbing!

BETTY RUBY BRIDE OF ARTHUR KENNEDY

Rose Point Presbyterian church was the scene of a pretty late summer wedding on Saturday, Aug. 23, when Miss Betty Ruby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Ruby of Almina avenue, became the bride of Arthur Kennedy, son of Oris Kennedy of Meadville, the vows being exchanged in the presence of a large gathering of guests numbering upwards of 250.

Rev. Alvin W. Smith, pastor, officiated, and his wife, Mrs. Smith, was pianist. Their daughter, Annette, was soloist and contributed two vocal selections appropriate to the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white marquisette for length gown, princess style, with elbow length gloves and a fingertip veil caught with a headband of white roses. A gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom, adorned her neck, and she carried a colonial arm bouquet of old-fashioned white roses and asters.

Miss Jessie Mae Brown served her cousin as maid of honor, and wore a blue chiffon floor length gown with matching accessories, while Mrs. Everett Peak, sister of the bride, and Miss Eleanor Schmidt, were bridesmaids, gowning alike in toe length poude blue taffeta gowns. They, too, carried colonial arm bouquets.

Charles Ruby, brother of the bride served as best man, while Jake Gallagher and Wesley Steckle ushered.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed a short congratulatory period which interested guests numbering 65. A buffet lunch was served.

Later the couple departed on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada and other places of interest.

The bride is a graduate of New Castle high school class of 1941, and has been associated at the Shenango Pottery. The bridegroom is a graduate of Princeton high and also Geneva college, is employed with the Tacon Manufacturing company in Meadville, where they will take up residence.

Out-of-town guests present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ruby, Ernest Ruby, Ruth Ruby, Mrs. Doretta Kobernuss and Mrs. Kennedy, of Meadville; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy, New Brighton, and Mrs. Hazel Wyndner of Gary, Ind.

The bride has been feted at a number of parties since the news of her engagement was made known, and most recent was that given at the home of Eleanor Schmidt, on North Mercer street.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

UNDER-SIX TOO YOUNG FOR SCHOOL?

The public kindergarten is a boon to underprivileged children and their parents. It gives these children an opportunity to play with other children of their age. It helps guarantee their moral and physical safety during the time when they are most likely to face danger, since so many of their mothers must work and be away from them part or all the day.

Besides, the kindergarten gives the underprivileged children experiences very useful for their success in the first grade, some of which many privileged children get at home. For another reason, children from well-to-do homes need the kindergarten for the opportunities it affords for them to associate with other children. As you know, there are many one-child families in the higher economic levels.

The Age Limit

In some school districts which have no kindergartens of any sort, there is no adequate provision for children whose parents would like to have them enter school earlier than the age limit set by the local board of education. In some school districts, the child must, in order to enter the first grade in September, be six years of age by the following November, or January.

Careful check on these matters has caused school leaders to agree pretty generally that where there is no kindergarten, the child should not be allowed to enter school until he is actually six years of age. Though the child under six might profit from the play contacts the school affords, he is nearly always handicapped because of his immaturity.

Besides, the usual eye-strain and general nervous strain demanded of the child entering the first grade is severe. For his physical and mental health and his future success at school, he will be far better off, as a rule, if he does not enter school until actually six years old. Usually his parents can afford, even at personal sacrifice, to find other ways for him to spend some time at play with other children of his age, if there is no kindergarten in the town.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Our whole family like to go bathing once or twice a week. Our youngest five years old has intense fear of the water.

A. Be kind and patient with him. Find a very shallow place for him to play in the water as he likes. Be in no haste to lure him to deeper water, but as he does venture there, help him always feel secure. Let no one frighten him by pushing or ducking him. Follow the principle of very, very gradual adaptation. Be happy if after several weeks he has shown growth in courage.

The World and the Mud Puddles

AN INDEPENDENT AIR ARM

The airplane, which received its baptism of fire in the first World War, is no longer playing a supporting role in this second World War.

It was superior air power which enabled the Nazis to sweep down through the Balkans in recent weeks, and from the tip of Greece, hurling air attacks against the British stronghold of Crete and sent planes to strike at Suez. Air power has enabled Germany to shatter the impregnability of the British Isles and air power has enabled Britain to carry the war to German soil and achieve such victories as the Bismarck's destruction.

England's surest hope of victory over Germany, leading aeronautical authorities are saying today, lies in gaining such decisive air superiority that England's sky armadas will be able to shatter the industrial nerve centers of Germany. The notion that Germany's defeat can today be achieved only by means of land forces slowly trying to win back each mile of German-occupied territory they consider both antiquated and futile.

At all events, the decisive importance of air power has led many competent authorities to ask that this country, like Germany, establish an independent air arm, with its control divorced from the army and navy but working in conjunction with both. Proponents of this plan point not only to its remarkable effectiveness abroad, they claim the lack of an independent air force has serious drawbacks. They point to the delay and waste caused by production of different plane models for the army and navy where the identical model would serve both, and to the disadvantage of leaving the control of our air power in the hands of men who failed to realize its importance in the past and still regard it as of secondary importance.

Whatever the merit of these claims, there is need of a thorough Congressional inquiry into the subject now so the nation may decide, while there is yet time, whether to have, or not to have, an independent air arm.

Vegetables Autos Interest Knudsen
Idea Of Henry Ford Intrigues OPM
Big Savings Effected For Defense

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25.—Henry Ford has to hire experts to develop some of his ideas but they're HIS ideas originally.

Making automobiles out of vegetables is one of 'em.
Emergency Production Manager William S. Knudsen was intensely interested when he heard of it. He was interested, for one thing, as a veteran automobile manufacturer. He was more immediately interested, however, in his official productive capacity. Think what a saving vegetable automobiles will mean, in various metals, much needed for military, naval and aviation purposes!

For that matter, why can't vegetables be utilized as raw material in the construction of planes and a good many kinds of army and navy supplies? Henry hasn't gotten that far yet, though.

Besides Production Boss Knudsen, Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard and Vice President Henry A. Wallace, as agriculture's ex-secretary, got a big kick out of the Detroit flivver wizard's new vegetable concept. Hank Ford himself has thought of his scheme from that angle. He predicts that we won't have any slump following our emergency boom, because farmers will be so prosperous, by reason of the enormously increased automotive demand for their crops (for farmers are the boys who raise vegetables) that everybody'll feel the effect of the ruralites' well-being. It'll radiate in all directions, in Ford's opinion.

Henry, the papers report, already has one of his vegetable jolopies on exhibition. Bill Knudsen, Secretary Wickard, Vice President Wallace and probably many others studied descriptions of it minutely.

What's In It
It wasn't absolutely all non-metallic. Its frame, motor and wheels have metal in 'em, but otherwise it consists of corn, cotton, wheat and soybeans. These are squished up into what's referred to as plastic. That is, it's a gooey sort of stuff that can be molded. It's pressed out flat, in panels, dried and then mounted onto the frame and around the steering wheel and motor.

Henry, as previously remarked, evolved the notion initially. Robert Allen Boyer, his chief research worker, cooked up the chemistry of it.

The plastic will stand harder bumps than steel, Boyer alleges. It's suggested that typewriters might, largely, be made out of it. They're mentioned as machines that there may be a shortage of, if we continue to be so hungry for metal as we are now, in connection with our defensive and lease-lending activities.

I'd imagine that a vegetable typewriter would bounce around a good deal when its keys are tapped vigorously. Still, there's a way of counteracting that difficulty.

Years ago, when I was starting on a news-gathering trip to China, I wanted a machine I could conveniently carry with me, and present-day portables weren't then available. However, I happened to run across a little affair known as a Bickinderfer. I don't believe it's any longer manufactured. It could be proved by all the laws of mechanics, that it wouldn't work, but it did somehow. And it had an aluminum frame. You could pick it up on two fingers. So I took it. The trouble with it was that it would jump a foot high the minute you hit the keyboard. But I fastened it down to a desk with staples, and got away with it.

Of course, aluminum is the scarcest item in creation at present, but a vegetable frame might be alright. Metal spittoons are being eliminated. So are metal wastebaskets. So are metal garbage cans. Metal tableware is becoming taboo.

How about vegetable substitutes? And Typewriter Ribbons

And speaking of typewriters, Bill Knudsen's OPM is tinkering with a new species of typewriter ribbons, of lower thread count than hitherto, because the army and navy need (Continued On Page Seven)

ASSURANCE

Let might blow temples down
And shatter ancient wall.
Destroy the little town.
Let oldtime structures fall.
But in the end the night
Shall live to master might.

Doubt not old age or youth,
Doubt not nor be afraid.
Time shall uphold the truth
Against every brutal raid.
Never shall last for long
What in itself is wrong.

Never shall tyrant rise
So powerful, so great
As to still all the cries
Of patient hearts who wait.
Believing soon must free
The day that sets men free.

Against the little gam
Might's conquests here and now,
Think not that hope is vain,
Truth will succeed somehow!
Hold fast through thick and thin,
Somehow the right will win!

I beseech you therefore, brethren,

Suggestions For Unity

Washington, Aug. 25.

IN the days immediately following the "Eight Points" statement issued by the Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill as a result of their deliberations at sea, there was both in London and here general and emphatic commendation. It is not too much to say that it was overwhelmingly praised.

NO one, of course, thinks the full facts of the conference were in that statement—or that they have been divulged since. Obviously that would have been inexpedient as well as unwise. Despite the theatrical aspect of the meeting there is widespread agreement that the results have been good for the cause to which both nations are committed—to wit, the defeat of Hitler and the crushing of the Nazi power.

THE CONTINUED bitterness of the German-Italian comment, and the few discordant notes sounded in Washington by isolationist statesmen, only accentuate the fact that the weight and force of the two nations will be more effectively used in the common interest and that through personal conversations, a better understanding is established between the two leaders. The advantages of the meeting have been too profoundly stressed by eminent international commentators to require repetition here. What has not been stressed, however, is that with the return of Mr. Roosevelt to Washington, no additional Congressional support for any program for greater cooperation in the British war effort has been gained.

THIS is deplorable but it is true. That the President has a program for more complete cooperation is assumed. Otherwise the conference benefits would be wholly moral and not practical. The disturbing thing is that the opposition in Congress seems to have stiffened rather than relaxed, and some of Mr. Roosevelt's smarter advisers are urging him not to force action on new proposals for extending help to the British until (Continued On Page Seven)

LABOR DAY

LIKE many of the nation's more important holidays, Labor Day has in recent years lost something of its original significance. It is regarded now as marking the formal close of summer and as providing a long week-end for a final fling at enjoyment of the attractions of pleasure resorts.

There is little thought of the meaning of the day, inaugurated by the Knights of Labor in 1882 and designated by Congress twelve years later as a national holiday. It is just as regrettable that this alteration of the day's character has taken place as it is that Memorial Day and Independence Day, designed to arouse patriotic impulses and inculcate a deeper love of country, have become, for the most part, merely days of pleasure.

Those who toil, in trades, in factories, in crafts requiring great skill, on the highways and the farms and in the mines, may contemplate with deep satisfaction the progress made during the last half century or more toward the improvement of conditions under which men and women toil for the means of existence and for life's advantages. There is no denying that labor throughout the world has at certain times and in certain places been akin to slavery. In large areas of the world today this is as true as ever it was.

Fortunately, while the picture of the present is not devoid of its imperfections, vast progress has been made in America and the worker today comes closer than ever before to the attainment of those ideals in the minds of those visionaries in the labor movement a half century ago. Labor Day is an appropriate time to mark these milestones on the path of progress.

OAHU

Although the name of the island of Oahu is not as familiar as its city, Honolulu, world events are destined to make Oahu known to all men. By reason of its strategic location it has become one of the pivotal points on the globe.

Oahu is 2,100 miles from California, 3,800 from New Zealand and 4,200 from the Philippines. Virtually all routes between Asia and America cross at this point.

Oahu is the most important outpost of the United States and further to emphasize its importance this country has fortified it in first-class shape. Pearl Harbor, sixty feet deep and covering ten square miles is a natural haven for a fleet of any size.

The harbor is reached by a narrow, tortuous channel and ships within it are not visible from the outside. Schofield Barracks on the island provides for the needs of the Army. On the island too is a huge Army airfield certain to be more and more of a concentration point for fighting planes.

CAPRICIOUS AUGUST

Cool spells in August customarily cause surprise. The quality of fickleness is never attributed to August, from which only one variety of weather is expected—hot, humid and generally uncomfortable. Yet records prove that August is not so constant as generally assumed, that its departures from the sweltering norm of the nineties are frequent.

This year's August cool spell was welcome after a sizzling hot spell and brought a delightful interval of pleasant weather which is certain to make the return of dog-day temperatures somewhat easier to endure. It produces a singularly exhilarating and restful effect, giving a new lift to the spirit depressed by what is generally considered as normal August weather.

There has been much in this August of 1941, with its shortening days, its swift descents down into the fifties, to indicate that August can be almost as capricious as April, and also that the month is providing a prelude to autumn's golden days.

These occasional cool spells and the early dusk are reminders that fall, with its own distinctive variety of delights—flaming woodlands and orchards and fields rich with their harvests—are just around the corner and that winter, in due time, will bluster upon the scene.

THE MARCH TO SCHOOL

The American people love parades, and a parade which always makes them happy is that of the children of the land marching to school on the opening day of a new term.

It is a beautiful picture, worthy of the talent of any artist. The alert faces of the children, their frolicsome steps, and the pretty clothes which they don for the opening day give the occasion the aspect of a grand festival in honor of American child life.

Once upon a time it was thought that children did not like to go to school. Some pupils may not like it too well now, but the modern school has become so attractive, its activities offer such a plethora of pleasure to vigorous youngsters, that few of them would stay away if given the opportunity.

In the old time school, pupils were told that they had to learn. Some of them who were unable or unwilling to do so were required to put on dunce caps and sit on dunce stools, there to be objects of derision. That did not make education more attractive.

Four Calls Sent Emergency Squad

First Aid Treatment Given
To Two Persons Later
Removed To Hospital

New Castle fire department's emergency squad was called into action four times over the weekend, and rendered valuable assistance in two of these cases.

Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock P. J. Wimer and W. H. Hawk were called to the home of John Essinger, of 409 South Walnut street, when little Linda Essinger, aged two years, pulled a coffee pot filled with boiling hot coffee off the table, and the contents spilled down his entire right side. The firemen administered an oil spray treatment, used in such cases, after which the little tot was taken to the New Castle hospital by them.

Saturday evening at 10:30 o'clock they removed Roy Martin of 26 East Long avenue to the New Castle hospital, after he had fallen down a flight of steps, suffering injuries about the face. P. J. Wimer and Peter Herman served on this case.

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon they took Josephine Vorolayak of 110 Big Run street to the New Castle hospital for an emergency operation. G. J. Shellog and P. J. Wimer serving with the ambulance.

This morning the emergency squad went with the fire truck to the Youngstown hill, where a gasoline truck had overturned, and remained at the scene in case of need, as a great amount of gasoline had spilled and it was feared it might take fire.

Ceded Territory Is Recaptured By Finnish Troops

(International News Service)
HELSINKI, Aug. 25.—Finnish troops have retaken all the territory ceded to Russia following the Russo-Finnish war, except for the Viiborg area. It was announced today. After the capture of Salla, German-Finnish divisions pressed forward to a line between Yläkurtti and Alakurtti. It was stated.
Retreating Red troops destroyed the railway running between Salla and Kandalax on the White Sea. It was said, but Finnish engineers have rebuilt the line.
In conquering the Salla district, the Finns and Germans were said to have covered very difficult ground, protected by strong new Soviet fortifications. The mountain area has now been passed and the offensive is expected to gain speed.

'Japan Cannot Stand Idly By'

(International News Service)
TOKYO, Aug. 25.—Japan cannot stand idly by while American oil is shipped through Japanese waters for the use of Soviet Russia, the influential newspaper Hochi Shimbun said today.
"Japan cannot tolerate the use of Japanese territorial waters by enemy shipping," the paper said.
"Since the United States has closed the Panama Canal to Japanese shipping, the Japanese territorial waters of the Tsugaru Straits and the Soya Straits can certainly not remain open."
"Nor can the Japanese nation watch with folded arms the shipment of American petrol to the Soviet Union by a big fleet of tankers."
Editor's note: The Tsugaru and Soya Straits divide various islands of the Japanese Empire. Both afford direct routes to Vladivostok.

Believe Governor James To Marry

(International News Service)
DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Aug. 25.—Although Gov. Arthur H. James and Mrs. Emily Radcliffe Case, former house-mother at a Cornell university sorority, laughed and side-stepped all questions, close friends of the couple were convinced today that they will be married soon.

One intimate acquaintance said he expected them to be wed within 10 days at Doylestown, where Mrs. Case—a tall, slender and comely brunette of about 45—and Governor James are house guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Charles A. Rowe. The governor is 57.

Blushing, Mrs. Case said "no," hesitatingly, when asked if she and the state's chief executive were going to be married. Then, laughing, she hinted that she may have "some news for the papers a little later."

Gaily, she sidestepped other questions by saying, simply: "No statement—not now."

Equally evasive, Governor James commented:

"As far as the talk about my getting married, well, it has been going about for some time. Why, they have had my daughter, Dorothy, engaged 14 times at least." Later, he added:

"It would not be for me to make an announcement. A man doesn't do the announcing."

DRIVE IS STARTED TO FREE IRAN OF NAZI SUPPORTERS

not known, but the mere use of this term indicated more than mere border defense, foreshadowing a campaign of several weeks or more such as those which preceded the British victories in Syria and Iraq.

British military circles estimated that the Iranian army does not total more than 150,000 men, including one armored brigade and from two to three divisions of troops well-trained and well-equipped with Czech-manufactured tanks, guns and rifles.

Announcement that the British troops had crossed the border was made officially by the British foreign office, while the Moscow radio announced that Russian forces had moved simultaneously.

Against Nazi Agents

The British foreign office disclaimed any intentions against the independence or territorial integrity of Iran and said the move was directed solely against Nazi agents which it charged and established control of Iran. Moscow promised that the Soviet forces would be withdrawn as soon as the "danger is over."

British military authorities revealed the Russian forces are attacking Iran from the Caucasus while the British are moving into southern Iran from Baluchistan.

No details as to exact areas of the movements were divulged and there was no indication whether the Iranians are resisting.

Authorities said the entire operations are being conducted under Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, who recently was shifted from the post of commander of Britain's Middle Eastern forces to that of chief of British forces in India. They declined to explain, however, whether this meant Wavell is in charge of the combined Russo-British move or simply the British end of the attack.

Meanwhile, British authorities said they had no confirmation of a report that Iranian troops had withdrawn 12 miles from the frontier as an "evidence of good will."

End German Infiltration

Britain and Russia translated their warnings to Iran into drastic action over repeatedly urging the Iranian government to oust the Nazi "fifth columnists" and "put an end to German infiltration."

London authorities revealed that the British minister to Tehran saw representatives of the Iranian government early this morning and made it plain the British military action was directed exclusively against Germany.

It was announced that Britain does not consider herself at war with Iran.

The British minister, it was stated, bluntly told the Iranians that the London government felt Iran was displaying "deliberate blindness on the whole issue" and that Britain regarded the Iranian reply to the British note regarding Nazi "fifth columnists" as wholly unsatisfactory.

At the same time the British government notified Turkey, Egypt, Iraq and Saudi Arabia of the British action in Iran and the reasons motivating it.

As the passage of British and Russian troops across the Iranian border progressed, there was no precise indication as to whether the British navy was cooperating with the land forces.

The London Daily Mail reported from Tehran that Iranian troops and artillery pieces moved toward the border throughout the week-end.

Teheran itself was reported calm, but the paper said staff members of the German legation there were hastily preparing to evacuate their wives and children.

The word antimacassar which is the English name for what Americans call dollies, that cover the tops and arms of chairs and sofas, came from the custom of men of ancient Athens anointing their hair with maccassar oil. This oil ruined beautiful fabrics used in upholstering furniture, hence the anti-maccassars to protect the furniture.

The Great Game Of Politics

he has further solidified public sentiment behind the proposals and behind himself. The truth is that administration legislative leaders are still shaken over that House vote by which the draft extension, so vital to the army and so strongly urged by the President, so narrowly escaped defeat.

ANOTHER vote like that would have a really devastating effect. It would painfully demonstrate the lack of unity behind the President's foreign policy. It would encourage the isolationist elements both in and out of Congress. It would enfeeble our defense operations and dismay a good many people. The seriousness of that vote has not been exaggerated. While 133 Republicans voted in the negative as a matter of party policy, it must not be forgotten that it was Democratic defection that made the Republican vote important and the result so close.

TO COPE with the condition this revealed, the President is advised to do two things—first, to appeal to the people in a radio address; second, to improve his relations with Congress. The latter could be done in various ways. For one thing, he could confer more frequently—and be a little frank—with the responsible Republican leaders instead of treating them as if they did not exist. In the second place, he could suppress—or, at least, tone down—some of the more blatant and offensive of his Democratic Senatorial spokesmen.

ONE of the worst examples of these is the discredited Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, who has just been publicly criticized by a special investigating committee of the House for his unethical activities in the matter of Governmental contracts and the outrageous exercise of his position as Senator to land them for his friends. For still another thing, the President could improve his relations with Congress by such a reorganization of his defense organization as to create both Congressional and popular confidence, neither of which is strong today. It is said that he is planning to do exactly that but the names of those reported to be preparing the plan for him—Mr. Ben Cohn, Judge Samuel Rosenman and Mr. Sydney Hillman—are not likely to reassure either Congress or the country.

SO FAR as the radio appeal is concerned, there probably will be no conferring with Mr. Roosevelt to act. But as to the other items there will be more difficulty. They involve doing several things he dislikes. One is to confer conciliatingly with persons toward whom, because of past opposition, he feels bitterly. Another is to replace some of the incompetents around him with men who do not admire him personally and have not concealed the fact. Still another involves admitting the truth about the inadequacy of his defense organization and the lagging of production, instead of trying to wise-crack away the very serious charges made by Senator Byrd.

NONE of these seem very great things to ask of a President in a time of crisis. However, hardly any one in Washington thinks he will do them. It is his inability to put aside personal prejudice and petty feelings that makes it hard for his opponents to put them aside either. If he were a different sort of man, for example, there would not have been the caustic comment upon the presence of two of his sons—Franklin, Jr., and Elliott—at the Churchill meeting. Of course, neither had any business being there, but that was not important, except that it needlessly offended the sensibilities of a good many people throughout the country. Mr. Churchill has a son in the army, too, but he was not there.

all the thread they can get to weave into balloons for observation purposes.

There's one high official in Washington who doesn't endorse over Henry Ford's prescription of vegetables for auto-making.

The exception is Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes. Harold, to be sure, doesn't particularly criticize vegetable autos, but what he's especially aiming at is conservation of gasoline, and he suspects that it will take as much gas to propel a vegetable as a lot of metal.

He may be wrong, at that. Vegetables are lighter than metals. It shouldn't take so much fuel to keep 'em hustling.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

There is nothing like food to satisfy hunger.

Baby's first thought is where his next meal is coming from.

Food is a chief concern of people throughout life.

Breakfast, lunch and dinner are almost standard routine.

Man eats to be satisfied, not always for nutritive value.

He accepts as regular fare those foods most satisfying to him.

Foods which remain longest in the stomach give most satisfaction.

Food with staying power provides high functional activity.

People should not worry too much about vitamins and calories.

There are too many food faddists experimenting with diets.

If healthy, eat a normal, well-balanced, hungry man's meal.

The vitamins and other details will take care of themselves.

Woman's reaction to the silk situation: "Darn stockings." Man's reaction: "Darn Hitler."

St. Andrew's In Charge Of Service

Central Christian Pastor Delivers Sermon—Concluding Park Service Next Sunday

Rev. Charles J. Burton and his congregation from St. Andrew's Episcopal church had charge of the union service held in the community building at Cascade Park Sunday evening.

There was a large crowd in attendance at this service, sponsored by the New Castle Ministerial association, to hear Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, new pastor of Central Christian church, deliver a sermon on the subject, "The Greatest Question in the World and the Answer".

In his sermon, Mr. Bliss stated that the great question is what we must do to be saved, and that there is only one way, to believe, to receive strength and inspiration one must lead a good life and belong to some church.

The invocation last evening was given by Rev. C. J. Burton, with Dr. J. J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, reading the Scripture, and Griffith Thomas, of the First Congregational church, giving a prayer.

Dave Lewis, choir leader at Central Christian church, led the singing of hymns, with Mrs. Ethel Evans, St. Andrew's church organist, at the piano. The choir selections, "Teach Me, O Lord", by Spohr, and the canticle, "The Nunc Dimittis", were features, with Miss Isabel Johnson, Trinity church organist, as accompanist. Choir members from St. Andrew's, Trinity, Central Christian and the First Congregational churches participated in the service.

The concluding union service in Cascade Park will be held next Sunday evening, Aug. 31, at seven o'clock, with Rev. U. S. Munterlin and members of the Second Baptist church in charge.

Iceland Mountains Bristle With Guns

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of reports by Walter Kiernan, International News Service staff correspondent, who traveled to Iceland, the furthest north outpost of the United States armed forces, with a naval convoy.

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 13.—(Delayed).—The lava mountain peaks of this island country bordering on the Arctic circle bristle with guns, her harbors and fjords are filled with battle-craft, her sand-bagged streets with rumbling trucks and marching men of the United States and British armed forces.

There are many American troops here with our convoy in port and their numbers are increasing steadily as convoy after convoy loaded with equipment and men ploughs through the North Atlantic to Reykjavik, the island capital.

The British including Canadians outnumber the Americans now but exact figures are difficult to procure.

Iceland Bombed

Bombs have been dropped on Iceland since the British forces moved in but there are no bombs dropped in the many days we are here. However, German observation planes come over high in the skies—too high to be reached by anti-aircraft fire—for a look.

What they see is the transformation of a peaceful 40,000 square mile island into a seemingly impenetrable military and naval base.

The British had accomplished much before the Americans arrived. The Americans are accomplishing more.

There is no night in Iceland in the summer—only a twilight which lasts, roughly, from midnight to 2 a. m. (8 p. m. to 10 p. m., New York daylight time)—and the forces are taking full advantage of the extra hours of daylight.

Through the full 24 hours of each day construction is going forward on barracks scattered over the islands, on gun emplacements at strategic points, on roads and road barricades.

Iceland's harbor entrances are guarded and tended by battle craft. No ship enters or leaves without first using its blinker light to obtain permission from the British naval harbor masters who will be succeeded eventually by United States naval officers.

Natural Defenses

The island has natural defenses for its key harbor at Reykjavik in the mountains which guard the approach. The capital city itself lies between and on two hills; Landakotshæð on the west and Skilavorduhæð on the east. Hvallfjörður, best natural harbor on the west coast lies between two mountain peaks also now topped with guns. Hvallfjörður is 30 land miles from Reykjavik on the single land mountain road known ambitiously as the great northern road.

Principal defenses are established or being established, naturally, in the most likely invasion points. But Iceland is rough, tough, mountainous country and her saw-toothed Arctic north is no more vulnerable than her other borders, a weird, frighteningly beautiful jumble of Scotland's moors and the Badlands, Rockies and Grand Canyon of the United States.

It is only from the air that Iceland appears to be hard to defend. German planes can and do fly over the island every day and American naval aviators who have been up say the ground defenses are easily discernible from the air.

Weather Begins

The world's weather is said to begin in this area and every day the Germans send over a weather man to take his findings. The British know the plane as the "Met plant"—short for meteorological—and have yet to take a shot at it or to send planes aloft.

They shrug their shoulders and comment that they see no point in tipping off the location of their batteries for the purpose of attempting to bring down the weather man. And they add that he is flying at better than 15,000 feet and not too good a target for ground batteries or important enough to waste fighter plane gasoline on.

With submarines it is different. A lumbering old walrus of a British cruiser, bombed and sank a submarine a few days before we arrived here.

"We were on patrol and we spotted the old boy just below the surface," the pilot told me. "He came up for a bit of a look around and we let him have it."

The Walrus is a pusher-type plane out-moded at least 10 years ago but the pilot seemed very fond of her. "She's a strong old craft and quite all right," he reported.

The British planes patrol well out at sea from Iceland and have many times directed Canadian corvettes and British and Canadian destroyers to a particularly rich field of submarines.

Four Subs Taken

One corvette has taken four subs and on the advice of a submarine commander, the corvette captain has kept the caps of the U-boat chiefs. "Our naval command does not credit us with a capture unless we have the captain's hat as evidence," the German asserted.

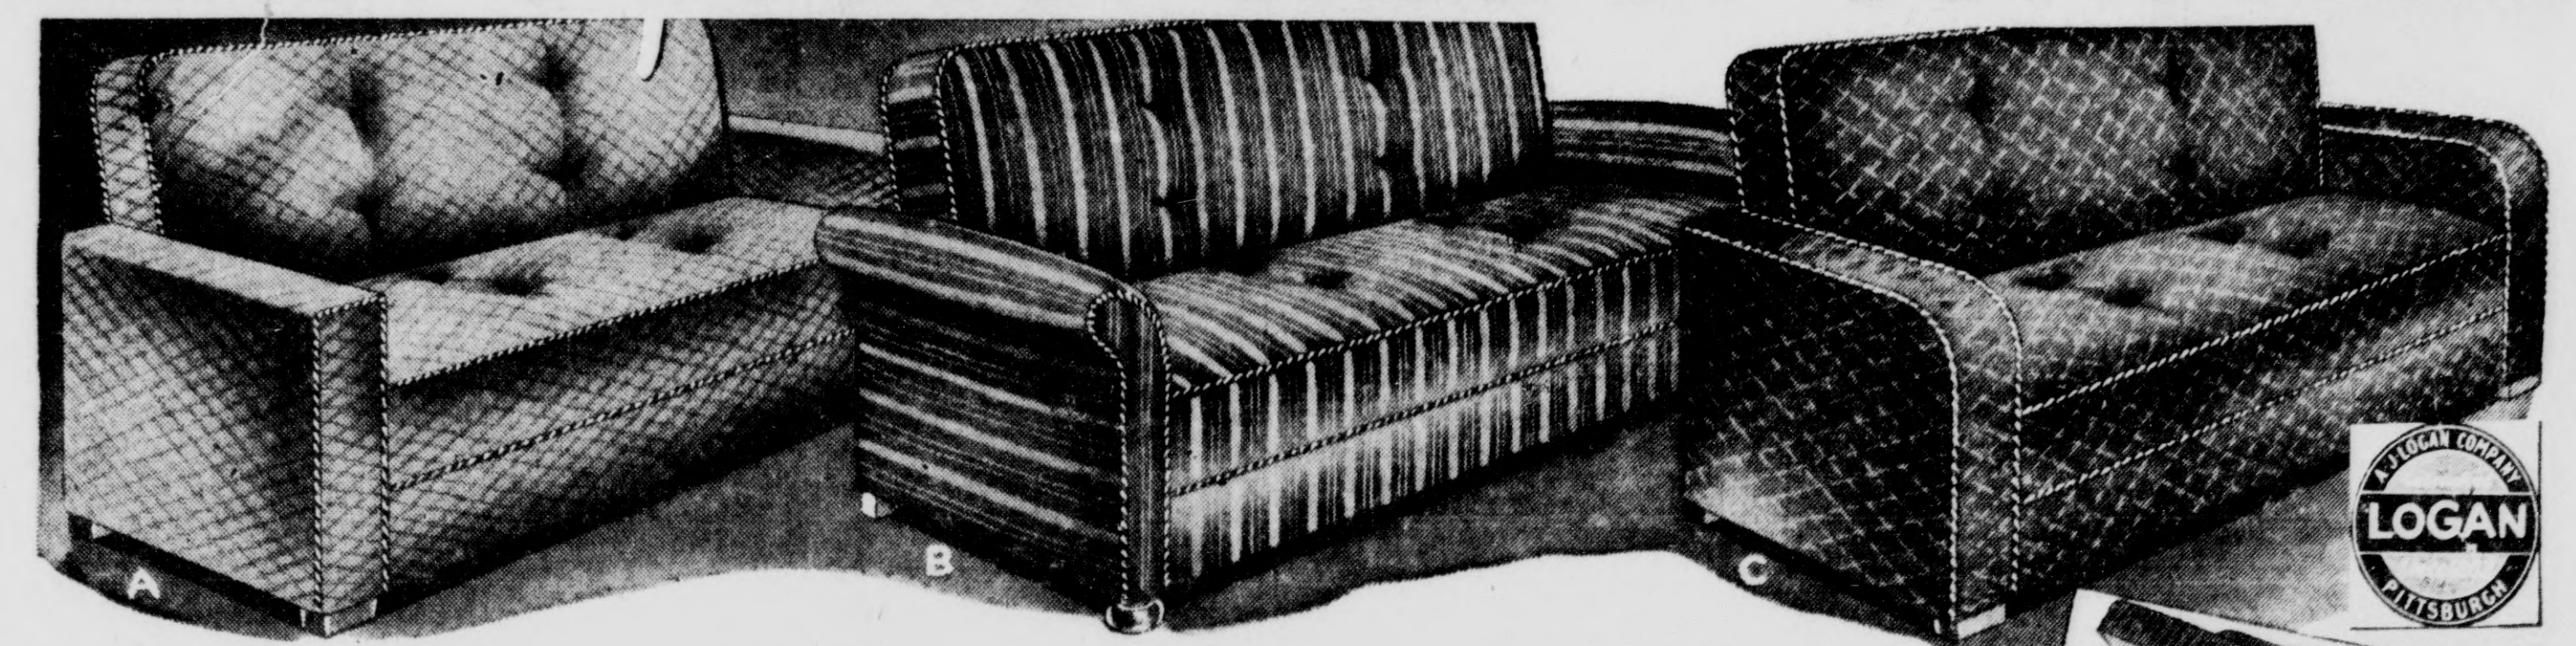

One British patrol destroyer is manned entirely by Poles—fierce, uncompromising fighters—and flies the Polish flag. A favorite story in Reykjavik concerns and camps concerns the day that the Pole-manned destroyer and another took 90 prisoners in a submarine raid and headed for Reykjavik.

Arriving at the capital, the British captain sent his 45 prisoners into the city on a whale boat. There appeared to be no activity on the Polish destroyer and when she was asked by blinker light when she would move her prisoners she answered: "There are no prisoners aboard."

A corvette captain figures in a lighter story. Having taken 74 prisoners with a crew of 40 he solved the problem of guarding them by standing them on the forecastle in their underwear. The Iceland breezes and the humility took any possible idea of fight out of them and one armed sailor sufficed as their guard.

U. S. Navy Notes Of Interest Here

Julian Shish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Shish, 1117 Scioto street, and Russell E. Cleaver, Tonesta, Pa., were enlisted in the U. S. Navy for six year terms. Shish attended the New Castle Senior high school and was a member of the CCC, having received an honorable discharge after two years' service.

John H. Fahnestock, Tonesta, Pa., was enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve for a four-year term.

The above named men were sent to the Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I., for six weeks basic instruction before further assignment.

Every little while the navy department receives expressions of commendation from the parents of boys who have been enlisted in the navy. We do not, for obvious reasons, mention names but a letter from a parent of a recruit reads: "In the short space of a little less than 100 days you have effected a complete transformation. From being a purposeless youth, indifferent to study or serious effort of any kind apart from fishing, hunting and sport in general, you built him into a citizen with motive, purpose and direction and with a definite object to work for. No amount of well intentioned home training, no matter how careful or conscientious, or for how long a period, could have produced such gratifying results, and I thank you and wish the best for the U. S. Navy."

Another parent writes: "Psychologically you have achieved, at his age, what every parent hopes for. Under your unbiased method of discipline you have quickly impressed upon his adolescent mind the importance of obedience, and I am happy to report back to you that my son is completely content with his enlistment and looks forward with keen anticipation to a career brimful of interest."

Public Assistance Raymond T. Bowman that there has been no significant change in living costs since the first of the year runs counter to that expressed by State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner. . . . The latter recently announced a pay increase of from five to fifteen dollars a month for his employees. . . . In doing so he stated that the increased cost of living made this essential. . . . Lackawanna County officials have received many complaints from relief families who contend their present allowances for food and rent are insufficient. . . . The policy-making state assistance board may take some action at its next meeting, September 25.

Possibility of a strike of liquor store employees still remains despite the pay increases granted by the liquor board. . . . Only a few of the system's 3,400 employees were affected by the increase. . . . Heads of the State, County and Municipal Workers' Union (C. I. O.) have not yet definitely decided whether to call their members out on strike.

Committee Of Senate Favors Exemption Act

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The Senate finance committee today voted to cut individual income tax exemption to $1,500 for married persons and $750 for single persons. Present exemptions are, respectively, $2,000 and $800.

A member of the committee who emerged from the secret session where the action was taken said that the lowered exemptions were approved by "a substantial margin."

The reduced exemptions, according to treasury figures, would produce from $300,000,000 to $350,000,000 additional revenue annually, and would replace revenue lost from the $3,500,000,000 tax bill when the House knocked out a provision for joint tax returns.

Duke Of Kent Visits Norfolk

(International News Service)
NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 25.—The Duke of Kent, youngest brother of King George VI of Great Britain, landed at the Norfolk naval air station here today and was immediately whisked by auto to the naval yard to inspect British fleet repair facilities.

Greeting at the landing field after his flight from Washington by Admiral Manley H. Simon, the duke was escorted through lines of sailors who stood at attention with fixed bayonets. After his visit to the navy yard the royal Englishman will go to Langley Field and then fly back to Washington.

The message came to the local chapter Saturday, over five months after it had been sent.

Britain Awaits Reply Of Japan

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 25.—All Britain today awaited a reply from Japan—by word or deed—to Prime Minister Winston Churchill's grave warning that Britain would line up with the United States in the event further Japanese military expansion brings war to the far east.

The first reaction from Japan was in the form of a Reuters (British) Tokyo dispatch.

This message said authoritative Japanese sources were "amused" by Churchill's references to Japan and that they said Japan is "not mending anybody."

Churchill issued his warning to his dramatic radio broadcast, reporting on his recent meeting at sea with President Roosevelt.

He also warned that Germany may next attack Turkey, Sweden or Spain and will launch war against the United States if she ever conquers Britain and Russia.

Of the Tories or Loyalists—about one-third of the American colonists, who remained loyal to the English king at the time of the Revolution—many left the country at the close of the war, going to England and Canada.

Gymanfa Ganu Chorus Meets

Rehearsal Is Held Sunday For Coming Singing Festival Here

With about 75 present a rehearsal of the New Castle Gymnanfa Ganu chorus was held Sunday afternoon in the Cathedral with Dr. Griffith J. Jones of Cleveland, musical director of the Gymnanfa to be held here August 30 and 31 directing. A number of the chorus members to be used were rehearsed.

The chorus has been in rehearsal for several months with David William Rees, director of the Reformed Presbyterian choir in charge. Mr. Rees will have a part in the direction of numbers at the Gymnanfa Ganu and assisted Dr. Jones Sunday afternoon. Three accompanists were used, Edwin Lewis at the organ, Mrs. John M. Evans of Clairton and Miss Lena Richards of New Castle at the pianos.

Word was received here today that the first delegation of the Chicago contingent to the Gymnanfa Ganu would arrive here at seven-thirty Saturday morning, August 30, sixty in number. Later in the day another contingent of some twenty-four will arrive by bus it is expected.

A checkup of the arrangements Sunday afternoon by General Chairman Henry T. Jones reveals the fact that everything is in readiness. The many jobs to be done have been correlated and the picture now is one of completeness.

Make Visit To Soldier Sons

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bechtel of Beaver, formerly of this city, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Harry Jeffries, of East Leasure avenue, have returned from a visit with the former's soldier sons, Kenneth and J. Earl Bechtel. The former, Corporal Kenneth Bechtel, enlisted, is stationed at Windsor Locks, Conn., Air Base, and is attached to the Air Service in the 712th Ordnance company. The elder son, J. Earl, a graduate of Duquesne university, is stationed at Spartanburg, S. C., and is in Company C, 35th Training Battalion.

Mr. and Mrs. Bechtel and Mrs. Jeffries were delighted with the splendid camps and the conditions that prevailed. The boys stated they were having plenty of good eats. In the same company as J. Earl, was a professor from Syracuse university, a graduate of Yale, and a millionaire's son, from Erie.

Weather Forecast To Be Streamlined

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—The weather forecast is getting a rhetorically streamlined touch.

No more hard and fast rules on phrasing the description of what the skies will hold for today and tomorrow. F. W. Reichelder, chief of the U. S. weather bureau at Washington, has directed weather forecasters to change the wording of the official forecast if they think it best.

W. S. Brotzman, Pittsburgh bureau forecaster, observed: "If they say it will be fair and I think it's going to gain I'm going to forecast rain."

Washington urged that clearer language be used, eliminating such words as "probably" and "partly cloudy" in favor of more definite expressions.

Delbert M. Eakin Is Laid To Rest

Throngs Attend Funeral Services For Youthful Delbert M. Eakin Who Died At Sea

The final curtain was drawn on the life of Delbert Monroe Eakin, 22, son of Frank Eakin of 606 Connor avenue, who was laid to rest in Oak Park cemetery, impressive services being conducted from the Cunningham funeral home, corner of East Washington and Chestnut streets, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The lad of 22 years died at sea on Tuesday, August 12, serving in the United States Navy, death resulting from poisoning. His illness lasted about two days, it was later learned.

He was stationed on the U. S. S. Witchita, and had but eleven months to complete his enlistment of four years, when death stepped in, placing his name on the role of honor as the first to be called of any New Castle soldier, sailor or marine since Central Europe felt the first evil blow of Mars on September 1, 1939.

A throng of saddened friends and relatives of the deceased mourned his death, the news coming as a shock to many.

Rev. Raymond Fredericks of the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle, was in charge of the funeral services Saturday, and members of the Nesheanock Post, No. 315 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, served as color guards and color bearers. They were: F. T. Sargent, Thomas L. Freed, Brinley Owens, Robert Kerr, John Walzer, Michael Sapkirch and Joseph Lane. Honorary bearers included members of the United States Navy, Chief Petty Officer John J. McElwee, Chief Petty Officer D. C. Ritchie, Charles L. Artz, escort, who accompanied the body here, and Clyde C. Rainey of the United States Marines. All were in uniform.

Those serving as active pallbearers were Frank Morgan, Guy Jay, Cleman Kerr, James Eakin, Jr., Leslie Eakin and A. Delbert S. Eakin, for whom the lad was named.

The many beautiful floral tributes filled the rooms of the funeral home, further testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew him, and many messages of sympathy have been received by the father, Mr. Eakin, from his shipmates, officers and hosts of friends of the much loved lad.

The News Company,

Dear Sirs:
The officers and members of the Reynoldstown School association wish to thank The News Company for the wonderful cooperation and publicity they have given us. We feel it is mostly due to The News Company and Mr. Reutz that this, our 33rd reunion held last week, was the most successful we have ever held. The Reynoldstown school being an old one, it is difficult to come in contact with all the pupils who ever attended the school, but The News has helped a lot in bringing us together.

You are always ready and willing to help, for which we again thank you.

Sincerely,
MRS. ELLA M. POLLOCK,
Secretary.

Baxter Battles Jackson Tuesday

Moran Takes On Phillips; Pratt And Wargo, Champs, To Box

FIRST BOUT TO START AT 8:30 P. M.

Sixteen fighters, each reportedly in the pink of condition, will pair off in eight amateur boxing bouts Tuesday night in the Arena. Judging from the quality of the amateurs the fans who trek into the local sports palace will witness one of the best pugilistic attractions here in some time. The first bout will start at 8:30 p. m. New Castle time.

Russell Baxter, local 155-pound flash, Knockout Frankie Moran, a lightweight, the Leisure boys and Henry Pratt and Nick Wargo, the latter pair Allegheny Mountain association champions in their respective classes, are scheduled for action. Nick Retardo of Ellwood City is another slugger who will swap punches.

Baxter and Moran have been showing exceptional promise. Baxter has lost only one bout since he embarked upon his pugilistic career and now that he is finished with New Castle high school he expects to devote himself to a pugilistic career.

Moran not long ago flattened Billy Shelton of Pittsburgh in 27 seconds in Farrell and topped this feat with an exceptional victory over Tommy Williams in the same ring last week. He had Williams down in the first but the bell saved Williams from a knockout.

Don Jerry To Box
Leisure brothers have been going good. Les is a husky puncher and his brother, Babe, has shown exceptional promise, despite his briefness in the game. Nick Retardo has been a consistent performer and while he has not won all his fights he has yet to put on a poor show.

Don Jerry, who left high school this summer, will make his amateur debut. He is scheduled to fight Andy Baker of McKeesport while the two champs, Henry Pratt, 113 pounds, will box Ossie Page of Youngstown, and Nick Wargo, 130-pound crown-holder, will oppose Julius Walt, a good boy from Weirton.

Bomber Brown will face Babe Leisure at 130. The Bomber is from Weirton, likewise Bobby Carmichael, 160, who will fight Les Leisure. Pete Misto, a veteran welterweight, will tackle Nick Retardo, and Ted Phillips, Weirton, will oppose Moran. Henry Jackson of East Liverpool will box Baxter in the feature set.

The Jefferson Athletic club will promote the show under the authority of the Pennsylvania Athletic commission and A. A. U.

CHICAGO—Bill Osmanski, former Holy Cross star, has signed for his third year at fullback for the Chicago Bears.

Football Squad Leaves For Camp

New Castle High Grid Team Starts Drills At Muddy Creek Falls

SEASON TO OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 5

New Castle High School's big "Red Hurricane" football team departed at 8 o'clock this morning for their annual encampment at Muddy Creek Falls for a week of intensive training.

On the bus that pulled away from the stadium this morning were 35 young huskies who will form the 1941 foot ball team or the opening night Friday, September 5, against Grove City High here.

Only four regulars from the 1940 team were on the bus—Robert E. Lee, colored fullback star, Norman Peters a guard, Scarazzo a tackle and Tommy Farou an end. But, there was on the bus a group of determined youngsters who will fight hard for the seven vacant berths.

The first workout was scheduled for about 10:30 o'clock this morning just as soon as the boys could get settled after reaching the beautiful confines of Muddy Creek Falls.

With the opening game a week from this coming Friday, the boys had plenty to do in camp and when the opening game sounds the big "Red Hurricane" eleven will sweep out on the beautiful greensward of Taggart Stadium and thrill the fans just as they have for the past twenty years.

Assistant Coach Phil Klee, Geo. "Gig" Thomas, Paul Cuba, were also in camp today, as well as Robert Stewart who is school custodian. Norman "Scots" Nelson, faculty manager was also on hand attending to the thousand and one details that must be done on the opening of a football camp such as New Castle maintains.

On Thursday night the famous Homestead Grays will play the Elders at 5 o'clock. This is the season's biggest attraction at Elders field and will no doubt draw a large audience.

Shenango Gridders Report On Thursday
Shenango Township high's 1941 football squad meets on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Shenango high. Coach Frank Nocera announced today.

Coach Nocera requests all candidates to be equipped with locks and keys.

The East New Castle eleven faces Evans City high on Friday afternoon, September 12, on Shenango field.

Monday sports wash:
Teammates at New Castle High not too many seasons back, today bitter coaching rivals. This is the story surrounding Nick and John Duan, who guide the athletic destinies of Adams Township and South Fork schools. The popular Atlantic avenue brothers leave town together today, eager to start the 1941-42 grind.

Once John leaves Nick's car, or vice versa, the "brotherly love" angle fades. Separated by a mere four miles, the local men will work diligently whipping together a football team for one big game! The date for this particular clash is November 8. On that Saturday, Adams Township faces its arch rival—South Fork!

The rivalry has been so intense, the way down the line, that school authorities severed relations 10 years ago. In 1940, however, the series was resumed. Coach John's team met a 13-7 setback. This season, however, the score will be reversed, Nick has been informed by his younger brother.

Filbert Nocera, Slippery Rock college's star footballer and golfer, is serving a hitch with Uncle Sam's army. Stationed at Fort Wheeler, in Macon, Ga., the pint-sized East Long avenue athlete has been serving in the capacity of assistant physical education director. Nocera still has one more year of college. The popular athlete would, no doubt, Camilli, who has rapped out close to 120 roundtrippers since 1933, has connected only five times in the bean town lot. . . . Penn State's football squad reports for opening drills on Wednesday, September 3. Coach Higgins has invited 43 candidates to participate in the maneuvers.

Plus Side

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The stock market opened the week with a procession of minor price changes today, the majority on the plus side.

Bethlehem Steel opened 1/4 higher but lost half this gain later. Big Steel and Youngstown rose 1/4 each. Republic lost a fraction. U. S. Steel was unchanged.

The principal motors were slightly higher. Metal shares were fixed. American Smelting lost ground despite improvement in first half earnings. International Nickel was lower but Anaconda and Phelps Dodge gained ground.

The same mixed trend prevailed in the chemicals, the rails and the oils. The aviation were all better as were the utilities. In the latter group Peoples Gas continued its advance on the basis of its dividend increase to the $4 annual rate. This morning the stock added 1/2 point to reach a new high for the year.

The month of June in its hey day never had anything on Saturday at the Prothonotary's office when young couples stood in line to get their marriage license applications filled out. No less than 17 young couples filed application for a license to wed.

The past week has been a busy one for the Prothonotary. In addition to many other forms filed in his office no less than 648 tax satisfaction papers having been placed on record.

Although the foundation for the new court house was dug more than a week ago, no work has been done further than that on the project, but should get under way very shortly, as brick were received Saturday.

Claim Fliers Swooped Low Over Health Camp

Butler Airport Pilots Face Probe For Alleged Sight-Seeing

It looks as though privacy is just another word in the dictionary any more. Or at least that's the idea of some folks near Evans city who are guests at the Halcyn Farms.

The manager of the farms explains that it's a place where people with skin diseases are cured by direct exposure to the sun's rays. But an inquisitive flier out of the Butler airport got the vulgar idea it was a nudist camp when his attention was called to the—nude figures scattered around the farm. It was noticed by a one-eyed passenger.

The pilot zoomed down, took a quick look and dashed back for the airport. In a few minutes most of the planes at the port were in the air with passengers who suddenly became air-minded and who also wanted a look at the nudist colony.

The manager of the colony, or farms, or what have you, got a trifle annoyed, took the plane licenses and now about 15 lads are in danger of being grounded for violation of the civil aeronautics administration rule that you can't fly low enough for your number to be taken.

German-Born Alien Is Under Arrest

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Eike Hard Dierken, 35-year-old German-born car washer, Saturday was held for the grand jury following his arrest and arraignment on a complaint charging him with failure to register as a foreign agent.

FBI officials and Assistant U. S. Attorney James D. Sawyer termed Dierken "one of the most dangerous German spies rounded up in the country." Dierken, if convicted, could receive a maximum 10-year federal prison sentence for failure to register as a German agent.

Upon arraignment he pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner Edward E. Fay in Brooklyn, and bail was set at $10,000. Government officials said Dierken gathered information regarding shipping routes and departures of one of the charges already lodged against 33 men and women who were taken into custody and indicted for conspiring to send national defense information to Germany.

Dierken allegedly collected the information and sent it to Germany by messenger, thus providing valuable tips to German U-boats.

In medieval times, the horny callosities, or "churns," found on the inner side of a horse's legs, was used for medicine.

Fairview School Former Pupils Meet In Reunion

One-Time Teacher, Dr. Grant S. Fisher Is Honored At Butler Co. Gathering

A group of former pupils of the Fairview school of Butler county gathered in Armo park last Friday afternoon to honor their one-time teacher, Dr. Grant S. Fisher of 924 Adams street, New Castle. Mr. Fisher began a three-year period of instruction in this public school in 1887 and at the close of each public school year conducted a six weeks' normal school preparing for college entrance and teaching. In both public and normal schools "subjects" were taught, no single textbooks, the teacher preparing outlines on each "subject" and the pupils gathering materials on these outlines from many sources. This method of instruction bore its legitimate fruit—19 of 28 pupils entering various colleges and 13 of these being graduated. Of this number at least one is well known to many New Castle folk—Miss Lydia McKinney, who for several years was superintendent of the old Shennango Valley hospital and now retired and living in Butler. Several of these pupils entered the "professions."

After the "feasting" was over Dr. Fisher was called on for "remarks." He reviewed his work as principal of the school and thanked the group for their thoughtfulness in planning the noteworthy event and for their appreciation of his efforts in their behalf.

Five of the group then spoke in eulogistic terms of their former teacher and his work. Mrs. Fisher was then called on for a "speech" and responded with some appropriate remarks and an original poem.

Charles A. McElvain, one of the group and now agent in Butler for the Aetna Life Insurance company and other insurance companies, headed up the committee having the reunion in charge.

Such a reunion after 51 years is a noteworthy event most of these pupils and their teacher not having met in this long period of time. The Rev. E. W. Byers, minister in Morningside Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh and chaplain of the Veterans hospital, was master of ceremonies.
